WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1840.

REACTION IN ENTRE RIOS.

The local journals complain bitterly that of the rebellious tendencies so prevalent and openly exhibited in Entre Rios. In Victoria a popular demonstration took place a few days ago, against the Captain of the Port, Major Lopez. The mob broke open the Customs' office, burnt the papers, and shouted 'Death to Mitre, down with the Porteños, down with the National Government!'

For some time past we have called attention to the seditious tone of the E. Rian journal, which are, no doubt the remote cause of these riotous proceedings. Neither the National nor Provincial Governments paid heed to the ravings of these fanatic editors. In fact, it is customary with the authorities to under-rate the influence of the press, which we believe to be all-powerful for good or evil.

President Mitre could not reasonably complain of the 'Litoral,' 'Argentino,' or 'Uruguayo,' when they stigmatised our National Executive as tyrannical, bloody, and dishonest, so long as he permitted the 'Tribuna' and 'Nacional' to fulminate their almost unprecedented anathemas against 'the tiger of Monte.lo.' In his zeal for liberty of the Press, he forgot that such publications are as abuse that seriously injures such liberty, and disgraces the literary profession of which he (General Mitre) is a distinguished ornament.

Our prediction, meantime, is becoming verified, and if some early be not downgallowed placed on those ultra-journals of Buenos Ayres and Paraná, the temporary excitement of a gaucho mob will assume the alarming proportions of a general rebellion throughout Entre Rios, which may spread to the neighbouring provinces. It cannot be concealed that disloyalty is rife in General Urquiza's dominions, and it only requires some clever hand that will fan the flame, to produce a terrible conflagration.

Urquiza is, we suppose, perfectly neutral, caring perhaps more for his local popularity than for the sense of duty to the supreme power of the Republic. But the people is a capricious master, and when treason and disaffection have reached a confirmed pitch, they will every now and every barrier, and level in the dust their idol of yesterday with the enemies of the hour.

Two great causes of discontent at present exist; the question of subsidy and Oriental Affairs. With regard to either that Entre Rios is, after Buenos Ayres, the most important of the Argentine provinces, and that producing the largest custom-house revenue, we are inclined to condemn the National Government for a misplaced economy in stopping the monthly supply of 10,000 patacones. The Custom of that port, since yield much more, and if we value the resources of Entre Rios we must also must be obligations.

The invasion of Banda Oriental has proved as unsuccessful as it was unjustifiable. The habitants of Entre Rios are ultra-Conservative, as those of Buenos Ayres are ultra-Liberal, and hence an opposition of sentiment, which lovers of discord have unscrupulously stirred up for their own evil purposes. One false step makes many, and the connivance of our politicians, with the reasonable designs of Rivera, has brought them into the ridiculous position of quarrelling with Entre Rios for violating a country which they themselves were the first to outrage.

Here we have an Argentine Colonel in the Oriental service killing his countryman for a question in which neither party has any interest, cause, or right to be involved. God grant that the combatants may not fulmogue the scene of action, but it is a mortifying spectacle to see Argentines of or settling that o en affaire amicabely, cutting each other's throats for a foreign Rien. It I till 1836 is humiliating to know that it yyred let the example, and that this, the Buenos Ayres, who prostituta talents that might yield splendid results if devoted to the common service of this magnificent and afflicted country.

ORIENTAL NEWS.

There was no steamer yesterday, but our colleagues were kind enough to supply the deficiency by making up reports of a recent victory by Flores over Venancio Flores, in which the vanguard of the latter was cut to pieces, and the general in-chief obliged to hide himself—God knows where. Our 'colorado' editors have also fanced Moreno to re-cross the Santa Lucia, lest he should be cut off by the victorious rebels, who are, of course, at hand, although invisible. Carabajal is placed at the head of 700 men, who escaped drowning at Polanco and hastened to Minas only for the purpose of re-forming. A Government officer, named Cuenes, was so alarmed by some dreams which he had of Mr. Hood, that he abandoned his post, and the whole of Jefe, for if Mitre should after a hopes of hours have tenacity enough to politely request to be despatched, they will inevitably receive an answer that could only be endured by a man of cool blood and broad shoulders. The sum of this has for some years paid an occasional business visit to this house, and he has never once entered that sanctuary without hearing complaints uttered by the majority of those waiting (like a batch of pleaders) for the latter. If Flores, as they believe, is not already annihilated the enemy, he has no doubt that the world would never hear of it. If Medina gained, why does he not send the filibuster's head to President Berro, with his compliments? There are at least 400 'colorados' in Montevideo some months ago, and this war, fants the speculation, that this number of rebels may have marcheed to aid Flores. In fine, the weather keeps up so well, that all parties in Buenos Ayres have been 'loose upon the victory' (a great victory; in this manner (borrowed from the ancient classics).

Our readers may have obliged Medina's army to fight with their faces to the sun, so that they were quite dazzled, and the rebels killed them almost without being observed. This is probably the reason that we have not heard of the Orientals since the 20th ult. Also St Michael's battle between Flores into favor on his feast day, and the defeat of Medina by mistake instead of Lucifer.

NEW INSURANCE COMPANY.

Four years ago the citizens of Buenos Ayres knew as much about Fire and Life Insurance as 'the Chinese do of railways, that is by hearsay. We have now a striking proof of progress in the dozen agencies which drive a fair business in this city. Almost all are English companies, and a large proportion of the insured are natives, who have learnt the immense utility of such institutions.

We were visited, yesterday, by the Secretary of the new company called Previsora Argentina, on the mutual principle, whose statutes and system are so contrary to our own as to amuse the reader. Mr. A. subscribes $10 silver per annum, which money along with all similar subscriptions for a term of years, is invested in mortgages, bank stock, and in the funds. In death or loss all, his heirs receiving nothing and his property invested being distributed among surviving shareholders or insurers. If his five five years his balance-sheet is made up, and he may withdraw his capital, with a probable dividend of 38 and 3 per cent. per annum on the premium, if successful business. After which he may go on as before.

Mr. B. is a married man and does not wish to leave his family penniless, he therefore does not go in for risk of death, and contenting himself with a smaller interest, secures his capital for his children, &c. forfeiting, however, in case he do not live to complete the fastrum of 9 years.

Mr. C. wishing to lose neither capital nor current interest, subscribes his $100 per annum, but receives a smaller dividend every five years than either of the former friends and B. While they were tied up, they gave no signs of uneasiness whatever, but when they were untied, they seemed to display a remarkable indifference, and were

The Institution is consistently adapted to bachelors as the English companies are only useful to fathers of families. We therefore especially recommend it to all who have not yet submitted themselves to the gentle yoke.

The Secretary is very obliging gentleman, Don Juan Canada, but his manner is an unhappy misnomer for the celibate Governor Co. The office is at No. 87 alle San Martin.

THE PROVINCIAL BANK.

The ever-worked rural Minister of Finance has been stunted from his usual lessons to a second edition of the Historia Argentina by a simple announcement from Mana's bank, and strange as it may appear, a porteña dignatary has for once condescended to follow the counsel of Cicero (his half-cousin) and reprimand to the Directory of the bank would give to understand that he is determined to enter the lists with the house in Calle Cangallo, where banking business is understood, and historical lucubrations are ignored; if he pretends to compete he must first sharpen his pruning knife and make liberal use of it in the 'contaduria' of the bank. Those who have transactions with this establishment must bestir their nerves with the patience of Job, for if they should after a hopes of hours have tenacity enough to politely request to be despatched, they will inevitably receive an answer that could only be endured by a man of cool blood and broad shoulders. The sum of this has for some years paid an occasional business visit to this house, and he has never once entered that sanctuary without hearing complaints uttered by the majority of those waiting (like a batch of pleaders) for the latter. If Flores, as they believe, is not already annihilated the enemy, he has no doubt that the world would never hear of it. If Medina gained, why does he not send the filibuster's head to President Berro, with his compliments? There are at least 400 'colorados' in Montevideo some months ago, and this war, fants the speculation, that this number of rebels may have marcheed to aid Flores. In fine, the weather keeps up so well, that all parties in Buenos Ayres have been 'loose upon the victory' (a great victory; in this manner (borrowed from the ancient classics).

Our readers may have obliged Medina's army to fight with their faces to the sun, so that they were quite dazzled, and the rebels killed them almost without being observed. This is probably the reason that we have not heard of the Orientals since the 20th ult. Also St Michael's battle between Flores into favor on his feast day, and the defeat of Medina by mistake instead of Lucifer.

NEW INSURANCE COMPANY.

Four years ago the citizens of Buenos Ayres knew as much about Fire and Life Insurance as 'the Chinese do of railways, that is by hearsay. We have now a striking proof of progress in the dozen agencies which drive a fair business in this city. Almost all are English companies, and a large proportion of the insured are natives, who have learnt the immense utility of such institutions.

We were visited, yesterday, by the Secretary of the new company called Previsora Argentina, on the mutual principle, whose statutes and system are so contrary to our own as to amuse the reader. Mr. A. subscribes $10 silver per annum, which money along with all similar subscriptions for a term of years, is invested in mortgages, bank stock, and in the funds. In death or loss all, his heirs receiving nothing and his property invested being distributed among surviving shareholders or insurers. If he five five years his balance-sheet is made up, and he may withdraw his capital, with a probable dividend of 38 and 3 per cent. per annum on the premium, if successful business. After which he may go on as before.

Mr. B. is a married man and does not wish to leave his family penniless, he therefore does not go in for risk of death, and contenting himself with a smaller interest, secures his capital for his children, &c. forfeiting, however, in case he do not live to complete the fastrum of 9 years.

Mr. C. wishing to lose neither capital nor current interest, subscribes his $100 per annum, but receives a smaller dividend every five years than either of the former friends and B. In this manner, the Previsora accommodates itself to all tastes and all purses, a principle of business which we consider though, diametrically opposed to the English, is not without its merits; for, as the secretary naively remarks, there is no room for Pulmonaria, the object being to keep yourself or insured healthy, forfeiting, however, in case you die

We understand the Bishop's attention has at length been called to the profane practice of playing operas during Mass, and that he has given orders to the parish priests forbidding the same.

At the German concert of the 15th, there will be a choir of 60 performers, including (we are happy to say) seven ladies. It will, therefore, be much superior to the last.

The next Rosario mails are expected to bring news of a final peaceful arrangement between Pauners and the Chacho. It is to be hoped the Buenos Ayres papers will not re-commence their rash system of 'libeling the caudillo of Los Llanos.'

Street fights are, thank God, very rare; but on yesterday an indignant crowd was seen kicking an orange vender and his basket down the Calle Defensa. The motive was unknown: but orange peels are both slippery and dangerous, and may have been a amatory precaution.

The hole in the wharf is not yet repaired, and it were desirable the Captain of the Port would compel some to put up a notice on the spot, "Beware—man-traps."

Our constant and obliging agent D. Silvestre Turcbin of Villa Mercedes has just returned from Spain with two younger brothers. We understand a Spanish Opera company is to be open a large house of business at Mercedes where the popularity of Don Silvestre and Don Turcbino, junior, is unbounded, ensures them every success.

We have received a complaint about the oil lamps used in the outskirts of the city, and we agree with it were better to confer pavement, drainage, and we or supply on the central parts than on the outskirts, where the most important parts such as calles Brazil, Garantias, Oruño, Pozos, Sarandi &c.

We understand that several friends of Poland have requested the Editor of Le Progrès to open a subscription for Polish Relief. This is an excellent idea, and we trust M. St. Guilly will encourage his countrymen to subscribe liberally.

Our readers will perceive that the customary Bolsa chapter has been for two days, omitted, and our editorial corrections reduced. This is owing to the unavoidable absence of one of the editors for a few days.

A CURIOSITY OF THE CHANCE.

A shocking event is said to have followed the capture of Ta-tsoo by the imperial troops. It is thus described in a letter to the Daily Shipping News of Shanghai:—"Much has been written of the innate cruelty of the rebels in China, and arguments innumerable have been adduced in support of converting the intelligent question of a foreign element towards the rebellion. We question much however, whether a more diabolical act has ever been committed than that which took place after the capture of Tai-tsoo. Some imperial soldiers, it appears, took possession of prisoners. After securing their eyes out with arrows, they return'd unto their clothes with oil, then applying fire, roasted the miserable wretches the world, or is it imprisoned in poverty, alive. This is no idle tale; more than one Englishman saw the dead done, and heard the cries of the unhappy victims, whose only wish was to help or to save, it is of little use to expatiate upon the exquisite pain this mode of torture must have caused. Retribution should be exacted, and that speedily. A

An officer who was present denies the assertion about the oil being used, and says that the prisoners' eyes were not excaped from Tai tsan, were captured by the imperialists, and brought into the Chinese camp near Wyenoain, where the old Chinese commander, Tsan Kwei Fang, the 2nd Regiment, and the Peloochees, was at the time assembled, offered, by way of amusement to the dwellings of the Chinese while they were attacking Taitsan. These seven prisoners were condemned to death by Chinese martial law. About eleven o'clock in the morning they were each tied to a stake, and each had four small arrows with little flags at the end, shot deliberately into their eyes, stuck into them. In no instance was any injury whatever done their eyes. They were kept thus exposed to public view until sunset, when they were taken

STATE OF AMERICA.

THE RESENTMENT TOWARDS ENGLAND.

Not many are to be found, even among the most rabid partizans, who will have the assurance to declare that English intrigue was at the bottom of all this Southern war and rebellion—some are fair enough to admit that the Queen's Government have, on the whole, performed the duties of a strictly honourable neutrality. The last speech of Lord Palmerston, the withdrawal of Mr. Roebuck's motion, have done not a little towards smoothing the ruffled feathers of the American bird; but England as a nation has inflicted on American wounds which time can but little heal. She looked on unconcerned on the American struggle; she has stood grinning round the ring, goading on the combatants, cheering on the gashes that tore them limb from limb. The long smothered rancour, the ill concealed jealousy of the old country for the growing new community, burst forth with insolent exultation in this hour of trial. Not an unfriendly word was ever spoken by an English public member at Westminster, not a sneering remark or a sinister presage ever was printed in any of the organs of the free London press, but was laid to the charge of the whole British people.

No doubt the Americans had, at first, a right to resent the unfriendly attitude of their Southern brethren in Mexico—ought to have all the more resented the unfriendly attitude they had set themselves that country to England would, from sheer spirit of contradiction, win them the good-will of France. But England, and will be, the only American cure for in Europe; England is Europe in her estimation. "I will go on right from behind my back," said one of the first Texas buccaneers, "and come in contact with, "and with myself I will rear with the stoutest British bull dog that ever I will find, and Frenchmen; lick any four of all of our European people." Even in his fondest conceit Jonathan sees in John Bull the only worthy antagonist. Throughout the worst humours of his long-cherished spite, throughout the long list of his real or imaginary grievances, there shines the American's respect for his stout Transatlantic constitution, anxiety to secure his good opinion, even a desire to be taken back into favour. "Let me but get my right hand loose," he says, and wring it from him by main force; Men laugh at the Frenchman when he brandishes his sword, but the day that a man he would be an English-man," but the American knows he is an English-man, and only trusts "if is something strong."

Whatever may be thought of the causes of ranking ill-will surviving the second quarter, there is no doubt of the fresh additional resentment is now being treasured up here against England; even among those who talk of a war with England, and who would spend the thought is gaining ground that the settlement of the Southern question may become the signal for an outbreak of hostilities with England. The people here assert that the American Government has signified to Earl Russel that the first gun fired on the part of any of the vessels in British ports, and they express their conviction that this must inevitably lead to a declaration of war with England. The evil day may be put off nevertheless, but even these threats, repeated at every moment in the public journals, have had the effect of leading to the public mind a tendency to minister to popular animosity, and to create a longing for mischief, however causeless and objectless it may be.

MUSICAL LANZY.

LOVE—Love, does it yet walk in Love—Love, does it yet walk in the world, or is it imprisoned in poverty, alive. This is no idle tale; more than one Englishman saw the dead done, and heard the cries of the unhappy victims, whose only wish was to help or to save, it is of little use to expatiate upon the exquisite pain this mode of torture must have caused. Retribution should be exacted, and that speedily. A passion? Is love not become the ex clusive property of novelists and playwrights, to be used by them for their professional purposes? Surely, if the men I see are lovers, or ever have been lovers, they would be unlike all other men are. The knowledge that he is beloved should—must allay a man tender, gently, upright, pure. While you a woman is in that state, I can't believe the falling desperately in love with a young lady several years my senior—the father of children—the grandfather in jackets. I have flirted in these days! Could I have betrayed a comrade? Could I have betrayed a comrade? Could I have stood quietly by and seen the friend I loved most unmanned? No, verily! In these absurd days she lighted up the whole world for me. We were but two people in the world, and the happiness of perpetual holiday if when she asked me to run a message for her, I would be unlike all the other service for her, I felt myself a superior nobility were conferred on me. I hop my passion to myself, like a glen, or published it in printers. Under six years my senior, and had 6 lovers was in point of fact, actually engaged and, with my knowledge, was contemplating marriage with one of them. I was not much in love to be sure, but I was certainly in a state of excitement.

As Old Acquaintance.—The man who is making the most stir at the present time is Mr. George Francis Train. He stops at the Water Cure. Here many of the strong-minded women, the out-and-out anti-slavery men and women, anti-Southern clergymen and reformatory men, resident, report Now Mr. Train is a ready speaker, not at all bashful, and, with views of rather a copperish tone, it may be imagined that Mr. Train has found in the water establishment boiling hot. It should be said that Mr. Train is quiet, gentlemanly, and not at all disposed to attack any one. But as his views are well known, and each corner thinks that he ought to reform, and not hard to get over him, the debate is carried on quite exciting. Among other projects Mr. Train has on hand is the starting of a new religion, in which each is his judgment is quite an improvement on the old one, which runs back too far, and is doubtful as to its personality. He thinks. So far, he has not made many grown converts, and the sect is not large.—Saratoga correspondence of the Tun and Journal.

A Meeting on Infant Reading.—A meeting has been held in London by a number of distinguished medical gentlemen, to interchange views on the best means of arresting excessive infant mortality. It was the unanimous opinion that improper food caused the majority of evils, and only present disease, but entailed constitutional derangements through out life. Dr. Routh showed that arrowroot and other similar glutinous farinas, from being deficient in nitrogen, were the cause of many deaths without the mother ever suspecting the cause. An exclusive arrowroot or white bread diet kills a dog in fifty days. Both articles of food, however, in healthy milk, there could not be any thing equal to the mixtures, when properly adapted to the directions, it was used in the 'infirmaries,' as well as by nurses, as also in the 'Lancet' and other medical papers, he had demonstrated that the food stated why it should be administered either entirely for handrearing or given exclusively at the breast. He protested against stirred arrowroots. He had been successful with all which had been said in praise of the mixtures. Hissun children' and 'Nurse' Dr. Routh began it; and he had been a great number of letters from medical gentlemen throughout the country, all of whom were unanimous in their approbation of the mixtures. Mr. Hakes, the respected and talented surgeon to the Northern Hospital, bore testimony in one instance had it failed when fairly tried, and pointed to many children fed upon it of unusual spirits and robustness. A number of other gentlemen were then read, and the Registrar General passed a vote of thanks to the chairman, when the meeting terminated.

Fatal Consequences.—One of the rooms of the first floor of Marlborough House has recently been converted into a kind of refreshment room for the Welsh guardsmen, or reception-room. It is hung about with many valuable and interesting articles which his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge has received as a present near, and with the most and other objects sent to him by his New Zealand friends. Among the pipes of every kind is one that which is fitted from the jewelled amber mouthpiece, a gift from the Sultan, to the common 'garnosh' pipe of the private soldier, which is smoked by the room, it is called a 'smoking room;' some people, better acquainted, call it by the name of 'the pipe of peace,' but, even called it the 'divan.'—

Pillar Rheumatics.—"Don't you think my son resembles me?" inquired the elderly gentleman of the barrister, as he gazed fondly boy to a witty physician. "Yes," replied the doctor, pretending to see a close resemblance of some kind, "I think I see your lineaments in his countenance.

A pleasant story is told of a conversation between two sailors who saw the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain climbing up the side of his yacht in a boatswain's chair—"Look at that fellow there," said the sailor, as he turned a lee-wing look to his messmate, "this is the first time one ever saw a short Chancery suit!"

One French cousins have produced something wherewith the writers may be amused during the numerous blanks literary flesh is heir to. An author's pupil may now be his doctor. The owner of this flock (Mr. Bogle of the Home Farm) is a bachelor, and has been by no means idle! I dash to the cow, who is at least of them can what these sportive creatures may take to the top of some dyke or sandy eminence, the pure cow mutes after her, bellowing, in a state of terror to her to that manifested by some best cow has been bewildered in a crystal shop. SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAUA & Co.

— No. 103 calle de Cangallo. —

BUENOS-AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts' Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the Bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

Those advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by any settlement number of Clerks, artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other trivialities

The Bank of Mauá and Co. of this city following the example of their firm in Montevideo now offer the same facilities in this city and will open on the 1st October a "Savings Bank" at No. 103 calle Cangallo from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. on week days, and on Sundays and holidays from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a Pass Book in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited, in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. is sufficiently known to the public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres September 19th 1863.

P. P. Mauá & Co.
WILLIAM D. SLIE.

CONDITIONS.

1st. The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty Are dollars currency or one silver dollar upwards.

2nd. The interest allowed is six per cent [6 p$] per annum which is liquidated every six months
